

Dear potential sponsor,

The 2025 n-Lorem Nano-rare Patient Colloquium (NRPC) will be held this fall at the Boston Marriott Cambridge. Our 2024 colloquium inspired many with shared optimism and enthusiasm for the future of the equitable and personalized treatment of nano-rare diseases. This community event unites n-Lorem patients and their families, supporters, physicians, industry leaders, and others under a single roof to highlight the foundation's advancements in patient treatment, share firsthand patient experiences, spark newfound hope with resonating case studies of patients who have benefitted from treatment, and address the pressing challenges facing the nano-rare disease community today. The 2024 colloquium drew high interest from around the globe with attendees representing more than 20 countries, resulting in >250 in-person attendees, >500 virtual attendees streaming the live event, and approximately 4,000 post-colloquium video views and presentation downloads.

"For so many patient families – hope begins in Boston at the colloquium"

- Daphne, mother of Harlow

"For families navigating the uncertainty and challenges of rare diseases, the colloquium offers a comforting reminder that they are not alone" - Kurt, former Oligo Product Specialist at Cytiva

Patients are at the forefront of the colloquium. Last year, we observed a 122% increase in participation of patients and their families thanks to sponsor support helping offset travel costs. For our 2025 event, we aim to build on this momentum. While the colloquium will be hosted by Biogen, sponsorship opportunities are available and will help ensure that these powerful voices remain at the heart of our colloquium.

Sponsorship levels:

Gold: $25,000 to sponsor the 2025 NRPC reception

- Enhanced visibility at the event by hosting the colloquium reception
- Option to give remarks during the colloquium reception
- Feature podcast recording on n-Lorem's Patient Empowerment Program
- Podcast sponsorship for 10 episodes ($10K value)

Silver: $10,000

All sponsors will benefit from:

- Logo inclusion on event materials, printed signage, and the nlorem.org 2025 NRPC event page
- Social media features leading up to, during, and after the event
- Significant recognition during the colloquium
- One full-page advertisement in 2025 NRPC digital brochure

If your organization would like to become a sponsor of the 2025 Nano-rare Patient Colloquium, please contact myself, Amy Williford, by emailing amy.williford@nlorem.org. It is through to the generosity of our partners and supporters that we are able to fulfil our mission of bringing hope and potential help through free treatment opportunities to those who need it most, as well as unite the nano-rare community for two days of learning and connection. We hope you will consider providing additional support by becoming a sponsor for this event.

Sincerely,
Amy Williford, Ph.D.
